Job Scope

The primary responsibility of a Housing Maintenance Worker is to participate in the maintenance and construction operations that support the social housing stock of the organization, as well as Elder-owned homes. This position works daily with building codes and carpentry best practices, and regularly performs mathematical calculations and reads and interprets blueprints. Primary work includes performing manual and skilled carpentry labour for maintenance services. This work involves having a knowledge of plumbing and heating systems, and includes working with or assisting Tradespersons in any area of a home for the purpose of maintaining that home; the associated construction activities involve operating various types of tools, equipment and machinery, and from time to time assists the Housing Manager in coordinating and directing the work of other employees. Daily tasks and activities are well-defined and are assigned and reviewed by the supervisor for adherence to instructions. This work is highly structured and approval is required for all deviations from assigned work. Tasks are assigned by the Housing Manager in either verbal or written format, and decisions are made by the immediate supervisor or actions can be taken after approvals are granted.

This position coordinates and performs a variety of work tasks and general maintenance work to make social housing and Elder-owned homes safe. The work also includes providing security/safety measures to safeguard buildings, equipment, work sites, and personnel. A key element of success for this position is an awareness and knowledge of reference materials to assist in addressing problems, challenges and issues, and includes, regulations, written policies, procedures and guidelines, as well as maintenance and work schedules and check lists, and equipment and tool manuals and reference handbooks, and WHMIS manual and data sheets. Other related duties as required.

Candidate Profile

The Housing Maintenance Worker has in-depth carpentry competencies and a good level of energy and is physically fit to perform the work, and has good interpersonal skills including good listening skills to gather information and to ask questions in order to carry out assigned tasks and to provide routine information and direction to others; and gaining the cooperation of other employees to complete work tasks. This worker has good written and verbal communication skills and communicates with the Tradespersons, Engineers, engineering aides/technicians, contractors and equipment operators, as well as with co-workers, building managers, home owners, renters, and the supervisor, regarding daily work tasks and assignments. May occasionally also have contact with occupational health and safety committee members, and the general public.
