STANDING POSTING

Jobs: Temporary Call-In (TCI) Worker Opportunities	Standing Posting: 01-2025
Effective: January 01, 2025-December 31, 2025

Invitation to Apply

Fort Nelson First Nation accepts applications for Temporary Call-In (TCI) Workers on an ongoing basis. TCI/Casual Workers meet our needs for backfill coverage and work load increases. Hours of work for a TCI/Casual Worker can range from less than one full day to 35 hours per week, and this is dependent upon the employer's needs; there will be weeks when workers are not required to report to work. The employer provides training for skills in entry level jobs, and provides job orientation and safety orientation. TCI/Casual Workers with increased skills mix and willingness to orientate for work in multiple service areas may work increased frequency. TCI/Casual Workers should have a good level of energy and physical fitness required for the work, and be prepared to report to work as scheduled.

Knowledge, Skills, and Abilities

Required knowledge, skills, and abilities depend on the job you apply for. All persons working with the vulnerable sector must provide proof of compliance with the B.C. provincial immunization program. Some jobs are considered positions of trust and require the successful completion of a Police Records Check.

Jobs, Employment Status, Hours of Work, Shifts

Job types are outlined below; employment status is categorized as "casual" worker; hours of work will vary; shifts may include evenings and weekends; vacation pay is 4%; benefits are statutory entitlements. Casual workers are eligible to apply for any internal position for which they are qualified.

- Janitor
- Class 4 Driver
- Building Maintenance Worker
- ECE and ECE Assistants
- Recreation Assistant
- Food Service Worker
- Home Care Aide/Home Support
- General Labour
